Illustrations: In addition to the maps that appear with the text, two oversize pull-out illustrations will assist the reader in following the account in this special issue of Studies in Intelligence. One is a chart, "US Leadership during the Vietnam Involvement," and the other is a map of Indochina as of 1973. Both are contained in envelopes at the back of the journal. The reader is cautioned that the chart, like this entire issue of Studies, is classified ~~SECRET/NOFORN~~.

A collage of memorabilia from the US-Canadian operation in late 1979-early 1980. The team successfully exfiltrated from Iran six US State Department officers who took refuge with Canadian diplomats during the early days of the 1979-1981 US-Iran hostage crisis. Among those shown are two of the story's heroes--Canadian Ambassador Ken Taylor, upper left, and the author (partially hidden, toward the bottom of the collage).

The sculpture depicted on the cover, executed by noted Santa Fe artist Veryl Goodnight, is entitled "The Day The Wall Came Down" and symbolizes personal freedom, especially the moment of joy shared around the world on November 9, 1989, when the Berlin Wall collapsed. Two castings of the 14,000-ton bronze sculpture exist, one at the Allied Museum in Berlin as a gift to the German people; the other at the George Bush Presidential Library, located on the campus of Texas A&M University.
